

Brent Reach Floating Support Service

Background Information

Introduction

Thames Reach in partnership with EACH has recently been commissioned by the London Borough of Brent to deliver a new generic floating support service, housing related support in the London Borough of Brent.

Brent Housing Related Support (HRS) project aims to enable people to sustain their tenancy or home and reduces the need for more intensive support at a later stage. The service also aims to help people maintain or regain their independence and encourages people to settle back into the community and support the development of self-reliance.

Support will be provided to clients both on 1:1 basis and in group settings. The support will be delivered in the client's home, EACH's office or in the community. The Floating Support Service office is located in Harlesden and operates throughout the borough of Brent

About EACH

Organisational Profile

EACH is a voluntary sector organisation with a 27 year track record of providing specialist counselling and support services to individuals and family members affected by alcohol and drug misuse, domestic violence and mental health concerns.

We operate across North-West London through our centres in Ealing and Brent, premises in Hounslow and Harrow as well as through outreach based satellites in Barnet, Hillingdon, Kingston-upon-Thames, Richmond-upon-Thames, Merton and Wandsworth. Most of our satellite work delivers our Violence Against Women and Girls work and our Employment Works project, which helps people to get back in employment.

EACH provides a range of community based services, having developed specialist services to meet the needs of Black and Minority Ethnic communities who experience cultural and linguistic barriers to mainstream services.

EACH is a company limited by guarantee with charitable status. Established in 1991, the organisation is recognised both locally and nationally for the innovative work it has pioneered in delivering alcohol and mental health services, primarily, to Asian communities in West London.
